EINPresswire.com/ -- MxHero announces today the availability of the award-winning Mail2Cloud platform through the G-Cloud 12 Digital Marketplace. Mail2Cloud combines best of breed cloud storage services (e.g., Box, OneDrive, etc.) with email systems for greater data security and content management. With Mail2Cloud, organizations can significantly contain data leakages due to email and better protect the organization from email-borne threats, such as viruses and ransomware.

Furthermore, Mail2Cloud allows organizations to better manage and protect their email records by leveraging their current cloud storage investment.

MxHero protects an organization's data and creates greater efficiency in the management of email communications. MxHero brings better data protection to organizations by automatically moving email attachments to an agency's cloud storage service. The move of email attachments to cloud storage is done without end-user effort and helps to ensure that sensitive attachments aren't sent directly as unprotected email attachments. MxHero helps organizations better manage their email communications by allowing them to store, manage, and search their email correspondences directly from within their cloud storage service.

"It is with great pleasure that we can provide mxHero through the G-Cloud 12. The need for data and cybersecurity has become critical in the last year. The global pandemic has challenged old solutions and new solutions like Mail2Cloud that resolve root vulnerabilities without demanding
