

Stardust World Productions Shines a Spotlight on Women in the Music Industry

Stardust World Productions supports females in the music industry.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, November 30, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, Founder and CEO, Shannon Rugani, is thrilled to introduce Stardust World Productions – a recording label dedicated to providing female artists with the support they need to thrive within the entertainment industry.

“I created Stardust World Productions as a women-supporting-women record label. My goal is to build a team of producers and resources to successfully launch an artist and bring in other talented female artists to help develop their trajectory for success in the music industry... and beyond,” Rugani shared.

Stardust World Productions

While Stardust World Productions is a female-focused label, it is inclusive of all genders. The label’s vision is to develop a roster filled with the best women and men in the entertainment industry — those who will lift women up and open doors, helping them reach their greatest potential.

A meta-analysis of 700 songs performed by the USC Annenberg Inclusion Initiative drew attention to surprising disproportionality regarding gender acknowledgment within the music industry. When USC Annenberg’s Inclusion Initiative team focused on songs between the years 2013 and 2019, it found that only 10.4% of GRAMMY nominees were women. Stardust World Productions is on a mission to balance the scale.

“Our team includes incredible women and men, and as we grow, we’ll continue to seek out people who share the collaborative mindset that makes what we do so vital to our artists, the industry, and the world we live in,” Rugani said.
