

Buying, Selling, Financing, & Remodeling Your Home - A Homeowner's Dream Seminar is Announced

If you are planning on buying, selling, financing, or remodeling a home in 2021, you need to attend this special one-time educational event!

ESCONDIDO, CA, USA, November 24, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As more and more Californians find themselves staying home, the home building industry finds itself with more work than ever before. Loan rates are at an all-time low while market options are scarce. Prospective buyers are finding themselves wondering if they will ever be able to find their dream home.

With all the uncertainty in this new seller's market, the owner of Small Business Marketing Solutions (SBMS), Nicole Crocker, recognized a need for homeowners to be educated by the pros, without a sales pitch, and they are here to fill that need!

SBMS is excited to announce a ONE-TIME FREE VIRTUAL Homeowner's Seminar (normally $79.99 per household!). This ambitious team is bringing home-buyers, home-sellers, and home-owners the information they want (and need), without the sales pitch they aren't ready to hear. Education is the primary goal of this event.

Nicole states, "We invite homeowners and prospective buyers everywhere in Southern California to join our panel of industry professionals as they discuss the options available to them. This event will consist of a panel discussion with breakout rooms and a Q&A session from the audience. Topics will include home loans, real estate options, major remodeling, interior design, and custom home building trends. There is literally nowhere else you can currently find this type of transparent information from industry experts! Whenever you read something online, you risk the article or blog being written by an affiliate partner, a ghostwriter, or a person from out of the country. Consumers need real information, without the sales pitch, and we are thrilled to be the ones to bring that to them!"

She elaborates, "We encourage attendees to submit any questions they want to be answered, as well as topics they hope to see covered, prior to the event. Our goal is to educate homeowners utilizing years of industry knowledge and experience. This will not simply be a lecture, but a panel discussion between professionals and anyone who may need their guidance."
