Rise in Demand for Safety, Comfort, and Convenience Features-

The growth in demand for safety, comfort, and aesthetic features has led to several technological advancements in vehicles, such as an installation of sunroofs that allow better air circulation; for example, AGC Automotive developed glazing technologies, which highly reduce noise and increase thermal comfort in summer for a more pleasant journey. Moreover, technology is developed to remove fog or frost from the windows to enhance visibility in all weather conditions with better illumination, which subsequently increases comfort level of passengers.
