“After analyzing years of compiled data, we found that a great number of businesses struggle with launching their website. Owners are frustrated with the do-it-yourself options and many can't afford the investment often required to hire a professional design agency. That's where PageLynx comes in. We're filling that void by giving small businesses an excellent opportunity to get a professional website, hosting, and a marketing campaign without needing to invest thousands of dollars.” – Jay Correia (Founder)

PageLynx plans to follow in the footsteps of its parent company with a consulting-first model. The flat-rate service fee starts at $198 per month for custom website design, hosting, and marketing services. Larger software projects, app development, and enterprise level websites will be filtered through to their parent company, DreamCo Design.
