valuable lesson that marks the reader's mind and teaches the importance of establishing good ties with friends. Through reading, children can create a bond and loving memories, learn moral teachings such as compassion.

Zoe, an award-winning Aussie singer and songwriter, endorsed the book saying, "A vibrant tale of two friends, Benny and Chomper the Bearded Dragon, on a journey of discovery in Australia. Fun, factual, colorful, and interesting! I loved the traditional Kangaroo transport! A perfect story for bedtime and study. A classic!"

About the Kangaroo transport, Zoe explains, "Whenever Aussies go outside of Australia, we always get asked if that is how we are transported around — and the kids are always tormented softly about that being their means of transport to school. So, we often tell folks for the fun that we 'ride the kangaroos to work and school.' It is rather adorable and silly. But hilarious too! I love that you added that in there."

Swick, a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators never actually thought of being an author/writer, but her son, Preston, inspired her to write. Preston was legally blind in his left eye, has Amblyopia, strabismus, and astigmatism. Because of his eye-patch he had to wear at such a young age, Swick started Patch Land Adventures in honor of Preston to encourage other children through their journey with their eye patching.

Carmen Swick, Author/writer since 2008 is a member for the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators and has won awards with her book series of three "Patch Land Adventures".
