What is stucco?

Stucco is a kind of textured siding that can be applied to both interiors and exteriors of buildings. It is created with cement plaster and has been widely used as siding since ancient Greece! No two stucco exteriors are alike. In fact, it can come in a variety of colors and textures.

Stucco siding has come back in popularity due to its many positive features such as...

1. Durable and long-lasting
2. Highly customizable
3. Affordable and virtually maintenance-free
4. Resistant to fire, fungus, rot and even insects

What Stucco Colors Are There?

There are a lot of stucco colors you can choose from! Classic stucco has a neutral tan color but white is very popular in places like the coastal Mediterranean. You can also go bold with colors such as pink, black and even blue. For even more natural and earthy options you can go with green or grey.

Can you Paint Stucco?

The short answer is yes. Stucco, like any other surface can be painted. Now if it is a good idea to paint it or not can vary depending on several factors. The best option is to ask a stucco expert before deciding to paint your stucco siding. You can always contact Malanda Exteriors for a free consultation!
