She says it awakened her true calling, namely to help humanity experience the one infinite creator. Giorgi's book offers holistic models of awakening one's true self. She shares wake people up, to show them the truth that they have been programmed to live in a limited way. With this realization they can then transcend these limits and improve their lives.

"It is now time to step into our true nature which is pure love," Giorgi says. "As we become open-minded and receptive to new ways of being, we learn to reconnect to our Source, and allow this innate intelligence to heal through alchemization of dense, darker energies to higher frequencies of light."

Cancer's Greatest Gift

She discusses 7 keys to attain optimal health and debunks what she calls myths perpetuated by vested interests with their own agendas. To her readers, she has the following message: "I would remind them that they are the creators of their true reality. Who they truly are is more than physical - they are metaphysical : beyond their programmed self in the 3D. And they have the power to reprogram themselves and live the life of their dreams in this chapter of their life."

At present, the book is going through a second edition.
