PUNE, MAHARASTRA, INDIA, December 14, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Truck Rental Market:

Executive Summary

Global Truck Rental Market is valued approximately at USD 72.58 billion in 2019 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 9.86% over the forecast period 2020-2027. Truck rental requires the hire and lease of large commercial trucks or light commercial vehicles. Truck rental is mainly used by individuals, businesses and agencies who do not own their own truck fleets but still participate in freight transport as a business. Constantly growing demand for trucks from the logistics, industrial and construction sectors and rapid population growth are some of the factors driving the global truck rental market. Truck rental lowers the level of vehicle emissions by reducing the number of sales of owned vehicles as well as of road vehicles. Such factors foster the growth of the truck rental industry at an exponential pace. In addition, fleet owners are actively working on cost-cutting steps to provide cost-effective fleet solutions. As a result, fleet owners are taking the option of renting trucks to dramatically reduce transport costs in order to handle costs effectively. Leasing or renting a truck eliminates operating risks resulting from seasonal demand for transport and the volatility of contracts driving the truck rental industry all over the world. In addition, the renting of a truck is an efficient and extremely cost-effective alternative compared to the purchase of a loan and a truck, since it provides the owner with a mobility option without having to incur the costs of ownership of the vehicle. These are the factors expected to fuel the global truck rental market in the forecast period. In addition, the leasing of a full-service truck removes financial responsibility for repair, service and replacement of vehicles and drives the global truck rental demand over the forecast period. However, the lack of service truck rental service providers in developing and underdeveloped regions is expected to impede market growth during the forecast period.
