

SAME ELEPHANTS DEBUTS AS TOP 10 NEW RELEASE

Ghanaian-American author Marjy Marj drew on her experiences of being an immigrant and attending college in America in her newly release book "Same Elephants".

SPARTANBURG, SC, USA, December 15, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Award winning Author and Speaker Marjy Marj scored again with her second novel, Same Elephants, launched as a Top 10 New Release on Amazon. This was a highly anticipated follow-up to The Shimmigrant (released in 2019) it is an enlightening and a heartwarming novel about four friends from diverse backgrounds. Marj chose to write about an array of women with very different backgrounds and ties them so eloquently together to represent the title of the book "Same Elephants". This is the perfect book for this day and age as it offers hope in humanity especially with today's protest and difficult conversations about race across America. Same Elephants explores everyday relationships, the presumptuous nature of society and the ability to rise above prejudice.

Author Marjy Marj has been a trailblazer on writing about her Ghanaian roots, today's politics and social issues. Same Elephants has shifted the hearts of many readers on racism. To spread the message globally on social issues Marj created a podcast called Humanity Chats, that is live every Thursday at 7pm (EST) to impact lives by interviewing everyday people. Recently Marjy Marj received "South Carolina Woman of Accomplishment" and the "Mary L. Thomas Award for Civic Leadership and Community Change Award" from The Spartanburg Foundation that acknowledged her hard work both in her community and globally. Her alma mater University of Baltimore where she attained her MBA featured Marj in their December 2020 publication to share her advocacy for immigrants, humanity and diversity.

What Others Are Saying

"An uplifting story of hope and the power and possibilities of friendship among seemingly different women. A testament to our shared humanity and to people of all backgrounds being more alike than we are different." Michel Stone, Author of The Iguana Tree & Border Child

"I love this author, she helps me to examine my own views on racism." KC Reads

"A refreshing and fun read which is perfect for many audiences and the times we live in. Marj's ability to present important racial and social issues by weaving Sasha's Ghanaian roots into the diverse yet racially the divided fabric of the US is genius." Akua Gyasi
