Construction Liens Attorneys Stuart, Martin County

As a contractor, subcontractor, or supplier, you have a right to place a lien on the property of an owner who has refused or failed to pay you for your services. Construction liens are a collection remedy that ensures that a contractor is properly paid for the work performed and the cost of materials. A talented Stuart, Martin County attorney can help you obtain the payment that you deserve through a construction lien. It takes the careful eye of a legal professional who can properly prepare and record construction liens to make sure they satisfy all of the notice and recording requirements.

The rules regarding construction liens are outlined in Florida's Construction Lien Law. According to the law, failure to strictly comply with statutory notice and recording requirements could impair your right to secure a construction lien. Our talented legal team will work closely with you to prepare a construction lien that fully satisfies these requirements so that you do not have to worry about your lien being rejected. The civil litigation attorneys at our firm can also defend property owners against construction lien claims.

Creditors Rights Attorneys Stuart, Martin County Legal Protection for Creditors in Stuart, Martin County

The area of the law that defines creditors' rights does not only deal with the rights of the creditor against the debtor but also with the rights of creditors against one another. Some of the most common issues that arise between creditors occur when multiple creditors claim a right to levy against a particular piece of property or the debtor's accounts. In this situation, the rules governing creditor's rights determine which creditor has the strongest right to a particular property or asset.

At Crary Buchanan, our team of litigation attorneys is skilled at protecting the rights of creditors who are seeking legal justice against one another and also against debtors. If you are a creditor who is looking to file a lawsuit to collect consumer debts or commercial debts, a Stuart lawyer at our firm has the legal expertise to help. We also serve business creditors, non-banking lenders, business owners, and a variety of other creditors.

Lender Liability Attorneys Stuart, Martin County Experienced in Lender Liability Law

Lender liability is an area of the law that first gained prominence in the mid-1980s and has now been accepted as a substantial body of law. Under lender liability law, lenders are required to treat their borrowers fairly and may be subjected to borrower litigation when they fail to do so. There are a variety of legal claims that can be used to take action when lender liability has been breached, and a Stuart, Martin county lawyer from our firm can help you determine which approach is best for your case.

One of the most common types of lender liability cases in Stuart involves a breach of contract and fraud claims. A loan agreement is just like any other contract, and if there was an absence of mutual consent the agreement cannot be enforced. If the contract is breached by the lending party, then the lender can be sued. The legal team at Crary Buchanan is familiar with the numerous breach of contract situations that can happen, and we are able to help you seek damages if you have been the victim of this situation.
