

Vermont Beverage Company Woodnose Launches Most Anticipated Release of the Season - Sacré

The 2020 vintage combines fermented maple syrup and shade-grown artisanal coffee for a truly seasonal experience.

BAKERSFIELD , VERMONT, UNITED STATES, January 4, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Renowned Vermont company, Woodnose, is pleased to announce the launch of Sacré, the most anticipated vintage release of the season.

Located in beautiful Bakersfield, Vermont, Woodnose was founded by husband and husband team, Justin and Roger Branon Rodriguez, whose aim is to produce sustainable and ethically farmed beverages. The Branon family operates a 4000+ acre maple orchard and collaborates closely with Maryland based, Coffee Coffee, to develop an inspiring and unique tasting experience unlike any other.

In the company's latest news, Woodnose has launched its most recent and widely anticipated vintage, Sacré. Sacré offers a one-of-a-kind drinking experience crafted from the family farm's organic maple syrup, fermented and aged in bourbon barrels and Fair Trade, shade-grown artisanal coffee. The non-alcoholic beverage doesn't require any mixers and can be delightfully consumed straight out of the bottle.

"We couldn't be more excited about our 2020 vintage, Sacré," says Roger Branon Rodriguez, one of Woodnose's founders. "Maple syrup is seasonal. This vintage is made with maple syrup we harvested during the 2020 season. The coffee beans were also harvested in 2020 and roasted shortly before bottling. As time goes on, the fermented maple continues to mature on its own, meaning Sacré can be enjoyed right away or stored for years to come. Its young and vibrant flavors will only continue to transform over time."

Sacré boasts a wide variety of features, including:

- Made in Vermont
- 50ml bottle
- Organic maple syrup, vegan, and gluten-free
- Sustainably farmed
- Low calorie, sugar, and caffeine
- Quick, easy, and non-alcoholic

In addition to perfecting Sacré to suit the pallets of any fine beverage connoisseur, Justin and Roger will also hand-sign every 2020 vintage bottle to provide consumers with a truly special experience.

Sacré has already been showcased in multiple news features, including Rachael Ray's In Season Magazine – 2020, People Magazine, Seven Fifty Daily, and AJC.
