Since the government shut down due to the Covid-19 pandemic in March 2020, the non-profit dog rescue and rehoming organization Shelter Hope Pet Shop has also become a cat sanctuary, taking in over 500 cats and kittens. Kim Sill, founder of Shelter Hope Pet Shop says: "It's an overwhelming time for everyone including cats. Our dog rescue has been operating at full captivity but now we have become a cat rescue too."

Kira Reed Lorsch of The Robert H. Lorsch Foundation reached out to Shelter Hope Pet Shop after hearing about the cats and asked how they could help. "We have supported Shelter Hope over the years and Kim's mission to save dogs and find them forever homes. My dog Missy is from her shop in Thousand Oaks. After the closing of local shelters and spay neuter services, Los Angeles, and surrounding communities are simply over run. Having fixed many ferals and adopted cats myself I know the challenge."

Jose Sandoval, the director of the Latino Alliance for Animal Care, will be providing a mobile spay neuter van on January 17 at Janss Marketplace in Thousand Oaks. He says: "COVID has impacted many spay/neuter services for the most needy families in Southern California. Shelters are full of cats and kittens and without these vital services shelters will euthanize many healthy cats and dogs."

The Robert H. Lorsch Foundation is able to fund spay and neuter for 50 cats. Look for the van next to the side parking lot across the main square from Shelter Hope Pet Shop. Masks are required and social distancing rules will be in place. For more information of how to prep your pet, foster or feral cat please contact: info@shelterhopepetshop.org
