Our approach to designing and manufacturing truck seat covers has established us as a leading brand in the industry and our top priority is delivering top-tier products to our customers.”

Kerry Doan

With over 30 years of craftsmanship experience, they have successfully established themselves as the go-to creator of custom-made, top-tier truck seat covers for various automotive brands like Ford, GMC, Jeep, Nissan and more. The key to their success is the time, precision, and dedication they put into making every seat cover. They spend about 150 hours developing and testing each design, making sure it looks stylish and comfortable at the same time. They create exclusive products that outperform every other seat cover. Their seat covers are constructed explicitly for longevity and comfort; this ensures that customers can relax and drive comfortably. They take into account the seat row, headrest, armrest, and vehicle size and model. Their measurements are also taken by hand to guarantee the perfect fit for your vehicle while using fabrics manufactured to the most rigorous specifications. With their keen attention to detail, they can provide the best suitable seat covers with various fabrics and design options for your truck.

What makes Westerner Seat Covers stand out from other businesses that sell seat covers is their central focus on manufacturing high-quality seat covers that are durable and stylish. All their seat covers are manufactured in Alberta, Canada. The premium material and foaming fabric they use ensure that their seat covers withstand anything you throw at them. Their seat covers come in a single-piece design, making them easy to install and avoid slipping from the seat while driving. To achieve that, they use dual under bucket straps and side anchors. Their seat covers are water-resistant and have oversized buckles, straps and ballistic sides that reduce wear and tear. These features make their seat covers durable enough to last a car's lifespan easily.

Along with their seat covers' durability features, they also test and provide quality control for their products. Their seat covers are tested and proven in the Northwest Territories' diamond mines and the Alberta oilsands. This rugged testing guarantees that their seat covers remain in premium condition against some of the harshest weather conditions on the planet.
