Brad Westover, NTLA Executive Director & NTLA Foundation Founder, said, "This year's conference will be unique. The NTLA Board thoroughly vetted like-kind associations who have held in-person conferences and voted to emulate the same COVID-19 safety protocols. As much as I am grateful for virtual connectivity, there simply is no great networking solution virtually. I look forward to being together again."

The conference will once again be a top-shelf event: a classy and warm venue, networking with industry peers, exceptional food, exclusive time with sponsors and exhibitors that provide leading products and services, unique keynote speakers, and more.
