

Entrex launches TICO – a private company credit score with third parties

Entrex (OTC: UNSS) is pleased to announce the launch of the Entrex “TICO Score” a TIGRcub Indexed Credit Observation for private company credit scoring.

BOCA RATON, FLORIDA, USA, January 12, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Entrex Capital Market \(OTC: UNSS\) \(https://Entrex.Market\) is pleased to announce the launch of the Entrex “TICO Score” a TIGRcub Indexed Credit Observation for private company credit scoring.

“Private company underwriting is the bane of efficient investing in the private sector” said Stephen H. Watkins, CEO of Entrex. “Our focus is to help Wall Street create an efficient path to invest in private companies – the same way they have assembled trillions of dollars of investment capital for consumers. Our TICO score has been established to help bring efficiency to private company investing.” Watkins continued.

Verne Harnish, CEO of ScaleUps, said “Capital Access for scaling companies – the companies that provide the employment and economic growth for the country – struggle to access capital. The SBA and the banking community certainly offers solutions when backed by personal assets – but our service and technology economy are asset light which creates capital challenges for many sectors of private companies – We see the TICO consolidating capital for Wall Street to leverage access to capital.”

“We’ve discussed TICO structure and algorithms with many of the large institutions, Fair Issac, Dun and Bradstreet and Dow Jones, who we hope will work together to develop an industry standard. Today we have the initial Algorithms, based on tremendous feedback, and have the first transactions which will establish a TICO score alongside the traditional underwriting process – it will take time to prove out just like consumer scoring evolved over time but we all have to start somewhere – and we have” said Watkins.
