

MAONO Recognized as CES Innovation Award 2021 Honoree

MAONO Won CES Innovation Award 2021 for its Flagship Product MAONOCASTER

KATY, TEXAS, USA, January 13, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The flagship product of MAONO, MAONOCASTER all-in-one home podcast studio has been named a CES Innovation Award 2021 in the streaming category by the Consumer Technology Association (CTA). The announcement was made ahead of CES 2021, the world's most influential technology event, which will be held from Jan 11-14, 2021 online for the first time.

MAONOCASTER simplifies the podcasting process by integrating several digital audio mixing equipment into one comprehensive solution for both beginners and audio professionals. It's ideal for podcasting, streaming, radio, and recording scenarios and enables an easy way for post-production and editing of podcasts and other audio contents.

To overcome the fundamental weakness of existing podcast stations with a lack of portability,

MAONOCASTER includes a built-in battery that supports 8 hours of recording or streaming. With MAONOCASTER, you can start podcasting at any time, anywhere. It also allows multichannel mixing and real-time monitoring, supporting up to 4 presenters at the same time.

In addition, MAONOCASTER features two separate premium-quality MIC amplifiers with XLR interfaces, noise-canceling algorithm, 6 vocal FX, 4 reverb modes, and programmable pads to upload jingles using the PC/Mac app.

Winning the CES Innovation Award 2021 culminates a significant end of the year for MAONO and a reinforcement for its commitment to meet the end-users' real needs. After successfully raised US$716,088 from 3,384 backers on Kickstarter, the largest crowdfunding platform, MAONOCASTER will be available in February 2021 on Amazon US and other retail channels. The affordable product is quality-built, user-friendly, and portable with a wide range of bundles to choose from.
