“We didn’t set out to design games that specifically catered to special needs, but we discovered that many of our games have elements that reveal some amazing talents, social skills, as well as physical and mental exercises,” Brian Turtle, National Sales Manager of Endless Games, explained.

Recently, Endless Games' The Korner'd Challenge, Dropsy Card Game and Mexican Train were announced as top toys for 2020 and featured in the Autism Live Holiday Guide. In 2019 the guide honorees included Traffic Cop Game and The Floor Is Lava.

Possibly the most interesting case is Endless Games' The Korner'd Challenge Game, a puzzle that is also a game. This game revealed some curious discoveries during its play testing. The object of Korner'd is to be the first player to place all of his/her color or picture patterned tiles to match to a game board. "What we discovered was that Korner'd involves spatial relationships and matching. For many on the Autism Spectrum this is an area of strength. Young kids on the spectrum easily beat older children and adults at this game," Turtle explained. "You could see that it was a tremendous boost in self-esteem and self-confidence."

Therapists and parents have cited that Endless Games' The Floor Is Lava helps with sensory issues as well as physical therapy, such as maintaining balance. Games like Traffic Cop, Red Light Green Light 1-2-3, and Dropsy have been praised for learning left-and-right, following instructions, motor skills, executive functioning and respect for authority.

Often, Endless Games' Mancala is used in schools for math practice, while Endless Games classic games, Chess, Checkers and Backgammon are all used in logic and strategic thought practices.

"I'm proud that our games bring so much fun to people. The fact that they also help so many people with their challenges is incredibly rewarding," Turtle said. "At Endless Games, we'll keep making new games and we can't wait to bring even more fun and benefits to all people."

Other games from Endless Games include Card Sharks, Camera Roll, AKA, Jeopardy card game, Wheel of Fortune card game, Password, Sleepover Party Game, Name 5, Everybody Knows, 60 Second Slam, Horror Trivia, What Comes To Mind?, and Encore, among others.
