

India Commercial 2 Wheeler Fleet is expected to cross 28.0 Mn by 2025 owing to rise in demand for Hyper local Deliveries

The report covers various aspects including the current scenario of Grocery Delivery, Food Delivery, Bike Taxi, E-Commerce & Courier Delivery Market in India.

INDIA, January 19, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- • Commercial Two Wheeler Fleet owned by delivery agents is expected to dominate the market and capture ~80% market share. Followed by fleet owned by company and third party logistic companies.

- High Growth in Bike Taxi Market is expected to attract investment in existing companies and entry of new players.
- Online Grocery Delivery Penetration expected to cross 5% by the end of FY'2025

Majority of the Fleet Deployed in Tier I Cities: ~65% of the commercial two wheeler fleet is deployed in Tier I cities namely Delhi, Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Mumbai, Chennai and Kolkata. Companies deploying commercial two wheeler fleet are expanding their presence in Tier I cities by expanding partnerships with delivery agents, setting up dark stores and fulfilment centres across the cities.

Impact of COVID-19: Due to COVID-19 outbreak, people avoided crowded places and turned to online grocery shopping amid escalating fears leading to rise in demand for Online Grocery Orders thereby increasing the fleet deployed in grocery delivery across the country.

E Commerce & Courier Delivery Market also witnessed an increase in number of shipments during the pandemic as customers avoided stepping out for shopping and brought all the essential items online. Bike Taxi and Food Delivery Market witnessed a decline during this period as people avoided travelling and preferred using their personal vehicles.

Introduction of Drone Delivery: With technological developments expected in last mile delivery such as autonomous delivery, Ariel drones and other improvements, delivery agents would be able to maximise the number of orders fulfilled in one day. This would reduce company's dependence on labour for last mile delivery.
