-- Healing Agent Tray Kearney announces the launch of the new faith-based program The Recovery Room. This virtual hospital is a safe space for individuals to heal from the devastation of infidelity and betrayal. Many years ago Tray suffered through the trauma of infidelity which led to her own journey of healing. Along the road to recovery, she realized a lack of support and resources existed to those navigating through matters of the heart. She then decided her pain would not be in vain. Which led to creating The Recovery Room.

Tray is here for those who need a little more than the regular support of family and friends on their journey of healing. Who better to receive direction from than someone who's been through the same pain and trauma yet has overcome it and is now healed and whole. This program will help men and women get past the grief stage of a breakup. Many are stuck and have been stuck for years due to a lack of information and resources on how to move forward.

“The Recovery Room is a safe space to heal. Where the pain stops and the healing begins.” - Tray Kearney, President, Tray Kearney Coaching.
