On the heels of an historic election year, New York attorney Collins-Bellamy has joined the race to make history as the first African American and Woman of Color to be elected President of the Yonkers City Council.

"I'm proud to share my vision that represents the heart of the city of Yonkers — our people," said Collins-Bellamy, a life-long Yonkers resident, Democrat and graduate from Yonkers Public Schools, who is raising a family in her hometown. As the City Council President, I will collaborate with local government officials and city agencies to build bridges and partnerships in an effort to develop a stronger Yonkers for all."

Collins-Bellamy's affiliations with numerous civic and community-based organizations include but are not limited to: The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Westchester Black Women's Political Caucus (WBWPC) - Yonkers Chapter, National Council for Negro Women - Hudson Valley Section and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Incorporated.
