An elegant four-course dinner and wine pairing awaits you Valentine's Weekend

The owners of the cheel and Maxwell Mansion have a connection dating back to their college days. Barkha Daily, of the cheel, and Luke & Monica Pfeifer, owners of Maxwell Mansion, are all proud graduates of Lakeland University (formerly Lakeland College) in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. Barkha owns the cheel with her husband, Jesse. Barkha and Monica, who were in the same graduating class, attended many courses and social events together as classmates.

We couldn't be more excited and honored to be partnering with Barkha and her team at the cheel for this romantic evening.”

As the Pfeifer's were in the process of acquiring Maxwell Mansion, a tragic fire destroyed the cheel in Thiensville. "We were heartbroken when we saw the news of the cheel, and we immediately began to think of how we could help Barkha and her team at the cheel continue to find ways to keep their menus and style alive during this rebuilding time," stated Monica Pfeifer. "We couldn't be more excited and honored to be partnering with Barkha and her team at the cheel for this romantic evening."

"The amount of support we have received from everyone near and afar really means the world to us, our staff, and families. When Monica reached out to me about this event, it was nostalgic and invigorating at the same time," said Barkha Daily. "I thought what a perfect opportunity to work with this amazing duo I have known since college and showcase the cheel along with celebrating the new ownership for Maxwell Mansion."

The evening will begin with a welcome reception at 6 pm followed by dinner at 6:30 pm. All dinner guests will receive a complimentary welcome drink. The first two courses will feature a Nepalese inspired appetizer and salad. The feature of the night and entrée is a New Zealand rack of lamb. The evening wouldn't be complete without dessert, a flourless chili chocolate cake. Each of these mouthwatering courses will be paired perfectly with wine provided by Vie de Vin. Reservations are extremely limited for this exclusive event, and tables are set with couples in mind, allowing distancing between other tables. About Maxwell Mansion

Maxwell Mansion was established in the summer of 1856 as a summer home for a prominent Chicago surgeon, Dr. Philip Maxwell. Over the years, several different owners put their mark on the property, essentially rescuing it from the passage of time, a fate that befalls many a historic property. The most recent owner, Andrew Fritz, undertook an ambitious three-year renovation, adding to the boutique resort's grandeur. Today there are 28 suites total across the original home and adjacent Carriage House and Stables, an elegant ballroom, a Speakeasy, and an
