

2021 ICare4Autism International Conference – ASD and Anxiety in Extraordinary Times

The International Center for Autism Research and Education will host its annual autism conference online on March 10th, 2021

NEW YORK, NY, USA, January 29, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ICare4Autism has announced its 2021 Annual International Autism Conference, ASD and Anxiety in Extraordinary Times, to be held on March 10th, 2021, 8:30 AM – 4:30 PM EST. Hosted on Whova, an all-in-one event management app, the conference will take place virtually and feature speakers from around the world, who are top researchers and activists in the autism world. They will be discussing the rigors of anxiety on people who are on the autism spectrum, and the latest research about CBD and autism.

We are happy to be able to offer our top-notch content to anyone who was previously prevented from attending our events...I am certain our online format will be a great success.”

Dr. Joshua Weinstein, Founder and CEO of ICare4Autism

Shore, Ed.D., a full-time professor at Adelphi University and adjunct at NYU Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development. Autism activists such as Merry Barua, Director, Action for Autism, National Centre for Autism, India, will also be speaking at the event.

Held annually for over fifteen years, ICare4Autism’s conferences are a teeming hub for scientists, activists, and educators in the autism world from around the globe to share their ideas and learn about the latest developments in the field of Autism Spectrum Disorder.

ICare4Autism hopes to reach its widest audience yet by hosting the conference online for the
