

Pandia Health Launches in Georgia Offering Prescription Birth Control Telehealth and Delivery

The only Doctor-led, Women-led, Women-founded birth control delivery company is on a mission to help women live their best and healthiest lives

LAWRENCEVILLE, GEORGIA, UNITED STATES, February 2, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- If there's anything the last year and the global pandemic taught us, it's that we need the products and services we use delivered in the safest and most convenient way possible. A birth control delivery and telemedicine company has just launched in Georgia to make life easier for women. Pandia Health is the only Women-founded, Women-led, Doctor-led birth control delivery company. Founded in Silicon Valley in 2016, the service is now available locally throughout Georgia online, offering services in English or Spanish.

Dr. Sophia Yen is the founder and CEO of Pandia Health. She's written thousands of birth control prescriptions and understands what can impact the effectiveness of contraception.

While telemedicine has been around for many years, the pandemic greatly accelerated the use of the remote service as a safer, more convenient option. In general, getting birth control every month from a pharmacy is difficult for many women, because of transportation and time issues. A June 2020 report from the Guttmacher Institute reported that 29 percent of white women, 38 percent of Black women, and 45 percent of Hispanic women had a hard time accessing birth control.

"We started Pandia Health to empower women with easy and confidential access to the care and medicine they need to live a more productive and successful life," said Dr. Sophia Yen, Pandia Health's co-founder and CEO. With more than 20 years of experience in reproductive health, Dr. Yen has written more than 2000 birth control prescriptions in just the past two years. Pandia Health has brought together a group of expert birth control physicians and customer service agents passionate about providing excellent care and educating women.

"Having your birth control mailed directly to your home (with a freebie every time) is one of the smartest and time-saving decisions you can make for yourself. Our goal is to help women feel great every day -- whether that's finding the right birth control for your body type and health history or understanding you can make #PeriodsOptional with all the health benefits that come with having fewer periods," she continued.

The physicians at Pandia Health offer asynchronous online telemedicine consultations for birth control prescriptions for the pill, patch, or ring, and Pandia Health provides free delivery of the birth control pill by mail. "Asynchronous" means that you can fill out the needed information 24/7. It's roughly 20 questions--the same questions that the physicians would ask you if you came into their offices. All that is required is a blood pressure measurement from the past year, a government ID, and a photo.

If you already have a birth control pill prescription and just want to use Pandia Health's free delivery, automatic refills, and annual reminders to see your prescriber services, just go to www.pandiahealth.com, provide the name of the pharmacy that is currently filling your prescription, your insurance information or credit card information if you don't have insurance, and delivery address. Pandia Health will bill your insurance for the medications and ship the pills to your mailbox with a FREE goodie (e.g. Hi-Chews, chocolate, tea, nail files, condoms, etc.) and a PSA (public service announcement e.g. BMI and Emergency Contraception, what you need to know) with each package. If you don't have insurance, it costs about $15/pack of birth control pills for most pills (3 pack minimum or $20 for 1 pack to cover shipping, handling, etc).

Pandia Health's founders believe women shouldn't have to worry about running to the pharmacy each month to get the medicine they need. Here's what patients can expect:

□ Care from birth control expert physicians who understand and advocate for women's reproductive/sexual health concerns.

□ Convenient, reliable, and confidential asynchronous telehealth for only $20 once a year to obtain an appropriate prescription, wherever you have Internet and a mailbox. No need to wait in line.

□ English and Spanish-speaking physicians and patient care advisors.

□ Easy and quick online registration and instant online chat (during business hours) with Pandia Health service agents.

□ Smart and passionate expert birth control physicians who provide cutting-edge, evidenced-based healthcare, resulting in fewer side effects.

□ Never having to worry about running out of birth control again or the stress of trying to pick it up at a pharmacy every month. #PandiaPeaceOfMind

Dr. Yen said, "Pandia Health will always tell you what's best for your health, even if it doesn't benefit our bottom line. I'm the only birth control delivery CEO who has taken the Hippocratic Oath 'Do no harm.' We're here to make women's lives better."

In addition to telemedicine, Pandia Health provides Facebook Live sessions weekly in Spanish and English Tuesdays at 8 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Eastern Time respectively to answer some of the frequently asked birth control and sexual health questions:
