

A Gamer of the Midway: Chicago Bears' running back Ryan Nall visited The Gamer Hour last night

Show highlights include Nall teaming up with Puckett for exciting gameplay in "Rocket League," and revealing who is his favorite all-time gaming character

IRVINE, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, February 3, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As with a growing number of NFL players and competitors in other sports, Ryan Nall turns to video games for a temporary escape from the competitive pressures of life as a professional athlete.

Nall, a third-year running back for the Chicago Bears, visited The Gamer Hour, (https://www.thegamerhour.com), last night, joining esports hall of fame broadcaster Chris Puckett to share his gaming interests.

Some of the topics covered in Puckett's interview with Nall include who he's picking to win this weekend's Super Bowl, what is his go-to Super Bowl meal as a pizza lover (think deep dish), how it felt to score his first touchdown last season, how the coronavirus pandemic changed the NFL this past season, what it was like to see his digital self in "Madden NFL" for the first time, who is his favorite all-time gaming character, how he grew up playing "Halo 2" with his brother, and his excitement about the upcoming "Halo Infinite" release.

Nall also revealed how enjoys watching esports tournaments on Twitch and who is his favorite gaming streamer, why he switched from Xbox to PlayStation, why he plays running back despite his size, what he is looking forward to in the upcoming football season, and who he thinks would

This past season, the 6-foot-2, 239-pound Nall played in all 16 games, recording eight catches for 67 yards, including his first career touchdown in week 9 against the Titans on a 6-yard pass from quarterback Nick Foles. He also posted career highs with four catches for 35 yards in the 24-17 loss.

Nall joined the Bears’ active NFL roster in 2019, after being a part of their practice squad since 2018. He appeared in eight games during the 2019 season and had two carries for eight yards and recorded two special teams tackles.

Before joining the NFL, Nall was a collegiate standout for the Oregon State Beavers football team and ranks eighth in school history with 2,216 rushing yards.

In 2016, Nall, appearing in 10 games for the Beavers, finished with 951 rushing yards and 13 touchdowns on 147 carries along with 214 receiving yards on 22 receptions with two total touchdowns.

As a redshirt junior in 2017, Nall played in 11 games, rushing for 810 yards and eight touchdowns on 165 carries along with catching 27 passes for 240 yards and two touchdowns. After the season, he declared for the 2018 NFL Draft
