Dynamic-QR-Code-Generator

A QR has a short URL placed in its code that will redirect the users to the intended destination. The dynamic QR code generator helps in replacing the destination without changing the QR code image. A single dynamic QR code image which is easily deployed in the platform and re-task whenever required. This is a great advantage when the platform needs a temporary placeholder for a regularly updated URL. Few features that make it an essential part of the development process are:

- Allows customizing the QR codes with logo
- It has a reusable code
- Editing the QR code URL without affecting the QR image
- Easily track the scanned QR code
- Perform unlimited changes in the URL of the QR code
- The code type of QR are interchangeable

Some significant advantages of using a Dynamic QR code generator:

Editing the data anytime:

If you have dynamic data related to your business that might change sometimes and you do not want to change the QR code image, then update the data. They make it possible to change the destination address and other functionalities anytime without any reprint. The dynamic form helps in saving time and money as it is adjustable with your business requirements.

Track the QR code:

Every time the code is scanned, one can easily track the device and get detailed information about their actions. This helps measure the success of business and make necessary changes if required to boost the website's performance and sales.

Handle Errors Effortlessly:

If you had to deal with a static QR code generator, then a single mistake in the entered URL will be resolved by generating a new code. While in the dynamic QR code generator, these issues might be resolved conveniently and faster by applying small changes in the URL section.

Design with more freedom:

Some businesses prefer printing the QR code on promotional materials where it just has a short URL. Using a small and straightforward URL structure makes it easy to scan to reach the destination quickly.

Great Flexibility:

Did you hire NodeJS developers or are you handling the AngularJS development, which delayed your deliverables? You can also print the Dynamic QR code beforehand and add the link to the page that is in working condition that will be replaced with any landing page whenever required. This makes the promotional campaign easier and less time-consuming.

Ideal for long-term:

This is an excellent add-on for the business that plans to grow its business on a large-scale. That indicated they would need a QR code with a stable structure but provides flexibility in updating the content. A dynamic QR code will be in sync with the future of business in the market.

Supports Multiple Functions:

There is a multi-URL solution that adds time-bound URLs or locations based on the landing pages. This makes the QR code more user-friendly and provides them the ease of navigation through the website.
