

Four of comedian Lori Hamilton's films have been selected for The Best Shorts Competition

Her message of positivity is resonating across the world

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, February 18, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Lori Hamilton specializes in using her comedic perspective to spread messages of hope, positivity, and kindness.

Whenever she releases a new film or project you can be sure that it will contain helpful life lessons as well as inspiration to grow not only as an individual but as a collective as well. Each project demonstrates her desire to encourage others to connect with and help one another live lives based on compassion and understanding.

Hamilton's films have resonated with viewers across the globe for their timely messages and ability to make viewers laugh and learn simultaneously. The four films that have been selected for The Best Shorts Competition are:

Positivity Piñata – Hamilton created this film during the COVID-19 pandemic as a cute cartoon to help remind us that even when the changes in the world are scary, we can still find kindness if we look. The film illustrates how each one of us has something we can share to help spread kindness in our own cities. Whether it is bringing food to an elderly neighbor or making a “thank you” sign to encourage health-care workers, there are simple ways everyone can help.

Potato Family – The animated short is the introduction to her interactive “Project Spudway” that features a young potato who dreams of being a designer. His unusual artistic tastes cause his family some concern. As they attempt to discourage his self-expression, he only becomes more determined, eventually choosing to pursue a successful career in fashion.

Project Spudway – The continuation of her Potato Family series. It features lessons from Project Runway told through the eyes of animated potatoes that teach viewers about body acceptance and positivity.

The Corporate Knobs - a comedy variety show that gives you the TRUTH about work life. Hamilton shares comedic insight into the corporate world through a series of skits featuring HR, Bad Mangers, and Real-World Job Descriptions.

All four shows have been chosen for other festivals as well and have been received a positive response from audiences and critics alike.
