Patricia Gastaud-Gallagher, who set the idea in motion. Tickets are now on sale for the once-in-a-lifetime, full-day experience. "Most everyone is familiar with the amazing story of how the Judgment of Paris put Napa and California wines on the map," said Angela Duerr, experiential concierge in Napa and proprietor of Cultured Vine. "Nearly 45 years later, today's wine lists and cellars would be immensely different if this momentous event had not taken place. Here in Napa Valley, Cultured Vine is proud to raise a glass in tribute as we reimagine that wine tasting competition in a new and meaningful way, involving legendary wines of the 21st century."
