

STAR Suite by GTR empowers users to achieve their financial goals

UK, February 15, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- In today's economic climate, traders can find it challenging to predict the markets' movements, primarily due to their volatility. Thus, those who use trading to achieve their financial goals are having a difficult time reaching their goals. Thankfully, there are tools available to help traders predict market movements, making trading easier than before.

Globalytics Tech Research \(GTR\)

understands the importance of confidently reaching your goals, even during trying times. By continually developing new technology, the company can provide world-class trading advisory tools to its users. Its latest addition, STAR \(Software for Tracking, Analysis and Risk Assessment\) Suite, is a trading advisory tool made for users to experience from their own desktop and mobile platforms. With this innovative technology, users can now use these tools for their day-to-day trading with world-class trading features to help them.

GTR has created various products using its proprietary STAR System to enhance users' trading aptitude and guide them into becoming a proficient trader. These innovative tools capitalize on the company's three core functions – Big Data, Artificial Intelligence, and Technical Expertise. By using STAR Suite, traders can benefit from the power and experience the STAR System's capabilities. They can also take advantage of the advisory tools to increase their trading skills. The tools are fully customizable to suit every trader's needs, and most of all, users can use them on their computers and mobile phones.

The STAR Suite currently contains two trading advisory tools: STAR LITE and STAR MAX. STAR LITE, its trading advisory program, is built from GTR's core predictive analytics capabilities and analytical inputs that provide exceptional advisory trading features incorporated into the MT4 trading platform. Because of this, users can conveniently trade by themselves. STAR MAX is a mobile application trading advisor that offers a seamless experience to users on the go who require access to real-time data, advanced charting, and information on assets. Now, GTR users can access professional, customizable trading data at their fingertips.

GTR's goal is to disrupt the wealth management industry with its proprietary STAR System and STAR Suite to broaden its users' investment portfolio, helping them achieve their financial goals.
