LINCOLNSHIRE, ILLINOIS, UNITED STATES, February 12, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Regional pizza restaurant chain, Sarpino's, is ramping up their franchise sales efforts after an incredibly successful 2020.

Last year brought a test to thousands of businesses around the globe. As several shuttered from the economic hit and sudden shift in normalcy, Sarpino's was a stand out among the crowd. "We immediately set a strong COVID response program in motion, with 90% of our revenue coming from contactless delivery services," stated Tetyana Yermolayeva, the Project Manager for the brand. Sarpino's has a sophisticated delivery system that includes a state-of-the-art online ordering and a mobile app to accommodate the growing trend to order food online that has been accelerated by the pandemic.

In addition to that, Sarpino's placed contactless delivery and curbside pick up protocols throughout its 47 locations. These protocols became available via online ordering for customers to choose as added convenience and safety measures.

During the unpredictable market of last year, Sarpino's continued to sell new units, with its most recent deal being closed in October. "We launched our franchise sales efforts in July of 2020 and immediately gained traction," stated Devin Conner, Director of Franchise Sales. "We're constantly adjusting to our environment, adding new items, and consistently bending to the culture's tastes around us."
