New film by Emeka Mbadiwe, "Lock Down Love" gets high marks for addressing the emotional toll on relationships during Covid. Available Now on Amazon Prime.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, February 17, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lock Down Love, a film by Emeka Mbadiwe is Now Available on Amazon Prime Video. The film tackles issues related to emotional and spiritual wellness in relationships in an era where coronavirus has become the new normal.

Since making its debut on February 12th, Lock Down Love has picked up recognition from Channel News 12, and has already accumulated 30,000 views in just under a week.

The spirit of love (self-love included) is universal especially in the month of February and the spread of the virus coupled with the rise in technology, have served to complicate relationship dynamics in significant ways. "All of this has impacted the way in which we connect with one another and with ourselves," says Emeka. Long distance relationships and even local ones are operating on remote fumes, often by Zoom or other FaceTime devices. Most, if not all relationships are carried out using text chat communications. It is why the crux of the storyline is super relevant to how the feature film unfolds. In it, actress Janine Hartman carries the solo with tremendous honesty, revealing her most intimate moments with the emotional roller coaster that comes with partnership and intimacy. "Insecurity is something each of us can relate to, it is part of the human condition," adds publicist Kojenwa Moitt of Zebra Public Relations. In the story, Lisa concludes she has been dumped because she is overweight. She will use the next 40 days to try and lose weight in the hopes of winning him back.
