Brief Information About The Fake “Mask Exemption” Cards

Surfing on the Internet, you can see many commercials about the “mask exemption” cards featuring a red, white, and maybe blue eagle logo.

The cards indicate that wearing a face mask poses a mental or physical risk to cardholders. Thus, the holders do not need to follow the law on mask-wearing at all public places.

Besides, these cards are claimed to be legal as they are part of the Department of Justice and part of the American Disabilities Act.

However, the Department of Justice and the Americans with Disabilities Act state that these cards are scams, and they have never cooperated with the Freedom to Breathe Agency producing these cards.

For these reasons, these “mask exemption” cards carry no weight under the U.S law, and they can “protect” you against neither the mask laws nor the Coronavirus.

The Only Four Groups Of People Who Shouldn't Wear Masks

Although most of us need to follow the regulations and wear masks to prevent and reduce the spread of the Covid-19, there are four groups of people who shouldn't wear masks.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s considerations for wearing masks, here is a list of generally exempted individuals.

- + Children are under two years old (typically).
- + Individuals who have significant trouble breathing could be exacerbated by wearing a mask.
- + Individuals are unconscious, incapacitated, or otherwise unable to put on or remove the mask without others' support.
- + Individuals who have sensory, cognitive, or behavioral issues could worsen if they wear a mask.

These individuals can consider the mask alternatives and select the most suitable one based on their conditions.
