CONNECTICUT , UNITED STATES , March 1, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Soccer is one of the most popular sports played around the globe. There are quite a few major international soccer tournaments. William Lindemann of Connecticut explains how it's possible to travel to see many of the games live.

Particularly in the United States, it can be a challenge to see many of the soccer tournaments televised. Since U.S. teams may not always participate, local sports channels won't offer the games live. This is why William Lindemann of Connecticut recommends traveling to see the games across the globe.

William Lindemann Connecticut explains that there are many incredible destinations to travel to in order to see the tournaments.

The Donosti Cup is played in Spain, The Gothia Cup is played in Sweden, and the IberCup is played in Portugal. William Lindemann of Connecticut has attended many of the tournaments. He also finds that since many of the tournaments are held at different times, it is possible to travel from one to another.

William Lindemann of Connecticut has found that tournaments are generally in the spring and summer months. By traveling to Europe for a few months, either in March and April or in June and July, it is possible to see at least two tournaments.

Although it is possible to see live soccer games on virtually every continent, William Lindemann Connecticut recommends choosing Europe. Due to the Eurail, it's easy to visit the various countries quickly and affordably. Live games may be offered in Italy, Spain, Germany, and elsewhere. This makes it possible to see some of the teams play before they make it into the tournaments.

While William Lindemann of Connecticut has watched the majority of the live soccer events in Europe, he has traveled to Brazil on several occasions. He counts being able to see the FIFA World Cup tournament as one of his most favorite sporting events. Additionally, William Lindemann of Connecticut believes that Brazilian soccer is unique in the way in which the fans react in the stands. Further, there are many different cities in Brazil to watch soccer, making it easy to spend a week in the country and explore as much soccer as possible.

William Lindemann Connecticut has worked with various travel agents that specialize in soccer. He finds that it's the easiest way to get travel plans that coordinate with the top tournaments.
