“It's now time to scale our success and offer our technology to every team that's looking for better ways to collaborate, so we are increasing our sales and marketing efforts. Eugene's experience and expertise in both early-stage and mature SaaS enterprise companies makes him a strong addition to our team, and I'm really happy to have him on-board.”

“Just like the internet of the early days simply made physical services like news, classifieds, and shopping faster and more convenient, today's visual collaboration tools simply bring the traditional whiteboard online,” said

Feldman. “However, with social media and mobile, the internet enabled us to do things that couldn't have taken place without it, and that's precisely what the Hoylu team has been able to do for visual collaboration. Once you see our latest release you will realize that Hoylu is to other visual collaboration tools what Facebook is to Craigslist. Our team created a whole new way to work and collaborate and we're just getting started. I'm so incredibly thrilled and humbled to become the newest Hoylie."
