The growing need for urgent shipment of dangerous goods and hazardous materials is expected to drive the freight chartered air transport market. Sensitive freights with dangerous and hazardous goods including explosives, highly inflammable, gases, radioactive materials, military items, toxic and infectious substances require a special skill set and expert knowledge for shipping the goods. These goods are transported through chartered cargo to avoid explosions and contaminations. For instance, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) of the USA, granted the authority for chartered cargo services along with training for all employees – in the form of a part-135 certificate – to operate on demand under FAA approved hazardous materials program. Urgent shipment of dangerous goods and hazardous materials is therefore expected to drive the market growth.

The freight-chartered air transport services market consists of sales of freight chartered air transportation services by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) that use aircrafts such as airplanes and helicopters to provide chartered (non-scheduled) air transportation services for cargo at a toll per mile or hour for the charter of the aircraft. Only goods and services traded between entities or sold to end consumers are included.

The global freight chartered air transport market is expected to grow from $18.05 billion in 2020 to $20.1 billion in 2021 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 11.4%. The growth is mainly due to the companies rearranging their operations and recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. The freight chartered air transportation market size is expected to reach $29.67 billion in 2025 at a CAGR of 10.2%.
