Rio Narley

Rio Narley, also known as Shaquille D Mitchell, has been using his art to spread his message of positivity and happiness to his audience. After finding incorporating his love for poetry and the magical sounds of nature, Rio manages to create music that uplifts the soul.

All the artist has ever wanted is to help. His legacy isn't meant to be just his music, but the good it did for the world. His goals to help the world aren't restricted to music as a method. He aims to build homes for those who need them most and make a hefty donation to charities that reunite refugee families.

It is fitting that a person who this motivated to help the world, remains so in touch with nature. Being based in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, the artist says he uses the sounds of nature to inspire him. Most of his music is created when listening to the sound of the ocean, not unlike his latest single, "Inquiring Jorge."

His music is just as motivated as his persona. Having been filled with positive messages and tunes, the music will have the listener believing in themselves by the end of it. Anybody who is feeling down and out needs only to listen to his words.

His latest single is all about being comfortable in your own skin. It provides reassurance and validation in a way listeners would've never expected.
