DrKumo Inc.*

DrKumo, leader in massively scalable next-generation remote patient monitoring (RPM) connected health technology, is a winner of the 2020 US Department of Health and Human Services \(HHS\) Office of Community Services (OCS) grant via partnership with Pacific Asian Consortium in Employment \(PACE\).

"DrKumo's cutting-edge cloud-based technology allows healthcare providers to remotely monitor their patients' medical conditions and modify their treatment planning based on continuous real-time data. This technological advancement in healthcare treatment helps reduce the burden on the healthcare system, resulting in an increased quality of care for patients and their overall health results," said Andrew Barrera, Procurement Manager, Pacific Asian Consortium in Employment (PACE).

DrKumo's multi-award-winning solution powers the next-generation massively scalable continuous real-time remote patient monitoring (RPM) that features multicast data live streaming for chronic disease management, acute care, post-operation, and hospital-at-home programs to address hospital overcapacity issues and costs in healthcare, reduce health inequity, and optimize patients' health.

"We are deeply honored to receive this prestigious grant from HHS in partnership with PACE. We will continue to work on improving the health and well-being of the patients through our mission to integrate technology into healthcare," Dr. Kelly Nguyen, CEO of DrKumo.
