Many companies struggle with compliance. It's overwhelming. TCT Portal takes a chaotic and complex process and makes it manageable. Teams usually cut their compliance man-hours in half."

Government contractors are working hard to quickly adhere to the new DoD standard, which has already begun to go into effect. They are asking a lot of questions and searching for the simplest way to become compliant so they don't miss out on the next contract opportunity. TCT Portal was designed to make that process straightforward and easy for a team of any size or locale to manage.

"Many companies struggle with getting through compliance. TCT Portal does a great job helping organizations be fully prepared to go through the audit process," said Adam Goslin, CEO of Total Compliance Tracking. "It's overwhelming. When you start that process, you're faced with hundreds of line items. TCT Portal takes a chaotic and complex process and makes it manageable. Teams usually cut their compliance man-hours in half."

Any company that bids on a DoD contract that contains controlled unclassified information (CUI) or federal contract information (FCI) will need to be CMMC certified. The level of certification will be noted in the RFP.

CMMC is based on several security standards, but has many similarities to NIST 800-171 and DFAR 52.204-21. A third-party Assessor will evaluate the contractor's readiness, based on the technical controls they have implemented, their documentation, and their policies.
