

A South Korea-based International NGO Advocates a Forum for Peace Dialogue by Stakeholders in Myanmar

NAYPYITAW, MYANMAR, March 29, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Heavenly Culture, World Peace, Restoration of Light (HWPL), the international non-governmental organization headquartered in South Korea and affiliated with the UN Economic and Social Council, issued an official statement expressing deep concern about the human rights crisis arising from the recent military coup and mass protests in Myanmar.

HWPL's statement calls for the international community to join in efforts to support a peaceful approach to resolve the current conflict in Myanmar.

In the "HWPL Statement on Human Rights Crisis in Myanmar" statement, the organization encouraged global actors in the military and civil society to display their unified support for conflict resolution through open dialogue.

In the statement, HWPL said hundreds of deaths and injuries were caused by "the recent efforts of the Myanmar military to suppress nonviolent protests" and that "no conflict of interest can justify violence against civilians, and no interest of any group can prevail over human life."

HWPL's statement called for all parties in Myanmar to "settle the crisis through consensus, based on mutual respect and understanding" and to "engage in dialogue to seek a peaceful resolution." The organization further asked global actors "to issue statements urging authorities and civilians in Myanmar to pursue dialogue and seek a peaceful solution in order to restore peace to the country."

"The number of deaths from protests exceeds 200, and the military has arrested more than

For the past five years, this international civil society advocacy for peacebuilding led by HWPL has shown support and initiatives at the national and international levels. Notably, the organization has collected over 730,000 letters written by citizens in 176 countries. These letters call for peace development in each country, which has led government and social leaders to express their support and engagement.
