Tzvi Odzer Explains That Workers Cannot Work

One of the biggest challenges that businesses face from the coronavirus is that it impacts the way that people work. The virus is highly contagious and anyone can contract it by being around another individual. Workplaces depend on people working together in tandem to be able to accomplish all of their tasks. Unfortunately, Tzvi Odzer knew there was a major problem with this when he realized that the virus meant that we had to practice social distancing.
