Green Globe recently recertified The Dylan Hotel Amsterdam.

The Dylan Hotel Amsterdam

Green Globe recently recertified The Dylan Hotel Amsterdam.

During 2020, the hotel remained committed to its sustainability goals to improve energy and waste management practices. Theatre lovers will also rejoice to hear that theatre performances were successfully held albeit in a new 21st century medium to conform with lockdown procedures.

Saving Energy

Last year, as part of its energy saving strategy, The Dylan Amsterdam installed LED lighting in hallways outside of guest rooms. The transition to LED will continue in 2021.

Reducing Waste

Waste disposal and recycling streams were centralized with the Amsterdam Municipality Government last year. The local government works in collaboration with Renewi, an international waste management company. Renewi handles 14 million tonnes of waste per year of which 89% is either recycled into valuable raw materials or used for energy recovery. The property now places all glass waste into recycling containers rather than sending it to landfill.

Live Theatre Streaming

The Dylan Hotel Amsterdam's annual play performances could have been impacted by the pandemic earlier in January this year. However, in the true spirit of live theatre, the hotel hosted a local community live audio stream of the play entitled "Gijsbreght van Aemstel". The play is the longest running theatre tradition in the world and has been running for over 380 years. The story is a "Trojan Horse of Troy" story depicting the end of medieval Amsterdam, which made way for the Dutch Golden Age in the 17th century.

The Theatre that once stood on the location of current day The Dylan Amsterdam was opened with the premiere of this play. Amongst the famous visitors to the theatre was the renowned painter Rembrandt, who would also become a production assistant in the play.

The audio livestream was a co-production with a local theatre group. The hotel was particularly pleased that more than 2,000 Amsterdammers tuned in at home to listen to this unique story.
