NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, April 7, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Prove, the leading Phone-Centric Identity

provider, announced today that Comparably, a top workplace experience site that provides comprehensive representations of what it's like to work at various companies, awarded it with 'Best Company Outlook' and 'Best Places to Work in New York' for 2021. Prove ranked amongst the top 50 small and midsize companies alongside notable brands such as Lattice, Discord, and Grammarly.

These awards follow a period of extraordinary growth for Prove (formerly Payfone). The company has seen 153% employee growth from 2019-2021.

"We are exceptionally proud of these two awards, which are a testament to the faith our employees have in Prove's success, and how invested we are in their happiness," said Prove's Rodger Desai. "As a founder and CEO who cares deeply about the company's success and the environment we have created, this is an incredible honor. I, like my fellow employees, am excited to see how Prove continues to excel after a record-breaking year for the company."

Prove ranked amongst the highest-rated organizations for Best Company Outlook in 2021, according to anonymous employee feedback submitted to Comparably.com over the past 12 months. Rankings are derived from sentiment ratings provided by current employees about how confident they feel about the future success of their company and how likely they are to recommend working at their company to a friend. All ratings were provided during the COVID-19 pandemic (March 2020 through March 2021), making these lists especially relevant for job seekers looking to find their next great place to work.

"Our Best Places to Work Awards represent the top-rated organizations in various workplace culture categories, according to employees," said Comparably CEO Jason Nazar. "Despite a challenging year due to the pandemic, Prove has literally proven to be among the best of the best in New York City and among its peers. The organization is applauded for remaining flexible, innovative, and focused on providing a solid foundation for outstanding company culture and future growth."
