LONDON, ENGLAND, April 12, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The DCRO Institute, a global non-profit focused on the advanced development of risk governance skills, announced today the launch of a guided study cohort specifically for board members of banks and non-bank financial institutions.

Bank boards must remain up-to-date, adaptable, and able to act decisively, nowhere more so than in the governance of their risk management programs."

Cohort Leader*

"Yet another set of headlines tells us that even at banks, there is still a deep need for a better understanding of risk governance," said David R. Koenig, President and Chief Executive Officer of The DCRO Institute. "Our Certificate in Risk Governance program is rapidly gaining international acclaim, and this study program, specifically designed for board members of banks and non-bank financial institutions, is not just timely; it's essential," he continued.

The Certificate in Risk Governance program, also known as The Board Members' Course on Risk™, is an intensive study and evaluation. The curriculum is designed for board members who seek to advance the governance of risk-taking at their organizations. The program features lessons by nearly 50 board members, c-level executives, and well-known authors from five continents who are some of the world's leading figures in risk governance.

Prof. Moorad Choudhry, a former bank CEO, current bank board member, and globally recognized risk and finance expert, leads this study cohort, which begins at the end of May. Applications to participate in this program are due by May 15, 2021.

"The last 12 months have seen banks responding to an unforeseen global stress event, falling foul of supervisors for the inaccuracy of their regulatory reporting, and suffering material impact due to cybercrime, counterparty issues, and technology failure," said Prof. Choudhry. Bank boards must remain up-to-date, adaptable and able to act decisively, nowhere more so than in the governance of their risk management programs," he continued.

Prof. Moorad Choudhry is an Independent Non-Executive Director, former bank Chief Executive Officer, a Fellow of the Chartered Institute for Securities & Investment, a Fellow of the London Institute of Banking and Finance, a Fellow of the Global Association of Risk Professionals, a Fellow of the Institute of Directors, has extensive Treasury and Finance experience, and is the author of The Principles of Banking and Bank Asset and Liability Management.
