

Aplus Aims To Capture The Global Industrial Automation Cable Demand in 2021

NEW TAIPEI CITY, TAIWAN, April 13, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Aplus Products Asia Co. Ltd., partner of OSI Electronics in Asia, is a leading international trading company specializing in computer cables, connectors, and wiring assembly. The company will be showcasing the new Aplus round and flat cable collections and customization services at various upcoming electronics events in 2021.

With the increase in demand for efficiency and lower energy consumption in industrial automation along with stringent emission regulation, the trend offers significant business opportunities for industrial automation cables. Aplus is uniquely positioned to capture this opportunity with its new custom-built automation cables. The product not only can withstand high temperatures in the engine compartment but also offers resistance against fuels, battery acid, and cleaning agents. Aplus has collaborated with big tech companies including Siemens, Honeywell, and Bosch in successful product implementation.

Competitive Advantages:

- Prompt delivery
- Custom built
- Stringent quality control
