

Using professional end of tenancy services a new trend with tenants to protect deposits.

More tenants are looking to use professional cleaning services such as SYK Cleaning to assist in end of tenancy cleaning.

LONDON, US & UK, April 14, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As the prices of monthly rentals around London, and more popular cities in the U.K. see a surge to accommodate the rising demand, some tenants are looking into using more professional end of tenancy services to assist with duties such as cleaning, repairing, and general maintenance. One such company which has recently sparked interest for end of tenancy cleaning is SYK Cleaning in London.

While the lockdown restrictions have left millions of Londoners and many other citizens at home, a recent property survey has revealed a spike in new renters looking to move to bigger and more prominent neighbourhoods. With strict rental laws in and around London, many are now using services such as SYK Cleaning to assist with end of tenancy cleaning. Although private rental contracts can differ from landlord, borough, and city - some claimed to have received a full return on their deposit when using proper cleaning services at the end of their renting period.

SYK Cleaning which is a London-based cleaning service has seen its services become more and more popular among young professionals, and families looking to relocate. Although smaller apartments and houses can be a quick and easy clean for many tenants, SYK Cleaning uses professional cleaning equipment and trained staff. Mr Stefan Kiryakov, who is closely affiliated with the cleaning company shared, "each tenancy contract is different, and it's imperative that tenants carefully read and understand what the end of tenancy regulations and procedures are." He added that "some contracts stipulate for the cleaning and maintenance of the entire rental facility, while others only care for minor details such as windows and ceilings."

Previous customers of SYK Cleaning and Kiryakov have been able to receive a full return of their deposits at the end of their tenancy contract. Although this can't always be the case for all customers, as other factors may influence the outcome. End of tenancy cleaning remains one of the most important aspects - as some landlords can have an extremely high standard for property hygiene.

What has given SYK Cleaning and other companies rendering similar services exposure, is that they offer more than a regular cleaning service but also incorporate other needs into standard packages. Although retaining clients and generating ongoing support has been a challenge for the company Kiryakov shares, there has now been a slow tendency in people looking for professionals to get the job done. Companies such as SYK Cleaning are now showing Londoners and renters across the U.K. that understanding and adhering to rental contracts can assist many renters to hopefully receive a full return of their rental deposit once they decide to end their contract.

More about SYK Cleaning

SYK Cleaning a London-based cleaning company that has garnered a favourable reputation among tenants across the city. The company specializes in the professional cleaning of apartments, homes, and larger houses. SYK Cleaning has assisted hundreds of highly satisfied customers with end of tenancy cleaning.
