leading provider of cloud-based solutions that improve the resiliency of critical infrastructure, including its flagship 811 ticket management system, announced the appointment of energy leader Andrew Vesey to its Board of Directors.

“We are very pleased to have Andrew join the irth Solutions' board,” said Brad Gammons, irth Solutions CEO. “His leadership experience at various energy companies that serve millions of customers will be crucial in our mission to enhance resiliency, reliability and safety of utilities, oil/gas, telecommunications and construction operations.”

Vesey's diverse experience as an energy leader in Australia and the United States as both an executive and consultant provides unique insight into the natural gas and electric industries.

Most recently, Vesey served as president and CEO as well as Board Member of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, a subsidiary of PG&E Corporation and one of the largest combined natural gas and electric energy companies in the United States. Before PG&E, he was the managing director and CEO of AGL Energy Limited, an Australian energy company operating 20 percent of the country's power generation capacity. In that role, Vesey committed to ending the company's coal-fired generation by 2050. Before AGL, Vesey held leadership roles at energy companies that included AES Corporation, Entergy Corporation and Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, and spent several years as a partner with Ernst & Young.

“It is my pleasure to serve on the Board of Directors for irth Solutions. I'm excited by the company's mission and believe they have a solution that is poised to be one of the best available to help improve resiliency, reliability and safety of critical infrastructure,” said Vesey.
