The first Host at TET Conference is: Nancy Robinson, Chief Growth Officer at Corcoran Global Living.

"I am honored and excited to be the first-ever host of the TET Conference for 2021," said Nancy Robinson of Corcoran Global Living. "I have always found TET Events to be informative, relevant, and inspirational. Alex Pelin and the TET Events group always strive to bring industry-leading technology and thought-leaders to provide value to those in the Real Estate, Mortgage and Title industry. They do all this and keep the event free of charge during the pandemic. These events were fantastic live, and now you have the ability to experience the same quality content in a virtual environment. I am looking forward to see my colleagues at this three-day, virtual experience."

TET Conference is an event that focuses on transparent and open conversations that aren't heard on a mainstream stage. All of the speaking sessions are held in an interactive, panel discussion format and have a Q&A at the end. Every year, the event brings together: real estate agents, brokers, mortgage and title professionals as well as proptech entrepreneurs and investors.

"The acceleration taking place in the real estate industry is making for an exciting time for proptech, fintech companies and real estate professionals," said Tyler Baldwin, chief operating officer at Reali. "Change is happening at an incredibly rapid pace, so having the opportunity to collaborate with other innovators at the TET Conference provides a great venue for information sharing. Collective innovation that moves real estate and lending forward is a win for us all, especially for consumers."
