economy. WIPP educates women business owners on economic policy and current legislative initiatives that ultimately impact their ability to grow and become an economic force. Through its programming and networking opportunities, business owners gain the tools and confidence necessary to become advocates on issues that cover a broad range of current legislation and policies, such as affordable health care, federal procurement policy, tax policy, energy, telecom, and other issues.

Lisa Firestone, a successful woman entrepreneur who founded MCA in 1997, is a passionate advocate for women business owners, frequently sharing her "lessons learned" in growing a successful business, stepping into leadership roles within the community, and experiencing first-hand the power of advocacy.

Lisa stated, "The women's business community has given me so much, that I became a passionate supporter and active member, to give back, advocating on behalf of all women business owners, mentoring young professionals and being a role model for all of those individuals who never thought that they could be at the helm of a successful business."

In response to being honored by WIPP, Firestone stated, "There are so many brilliant women in business, it is truly an honor to have had the opportunity to serve in a leadership role within WIPP and to continue to support and advocate on behalf of a vibrant, strong and powerful community, I truly believe there may be roadblocks, but there are no boundaries for women."
