

Covid-19 Vaccination Cards May Be a Hassle to Replace, So Keep Your Card Protected

The paper CDC vaccine cards may be the best option to gain access to events or venues that require proof of vaccination, so keep those cards safe!

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, May 3, 2021 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- A universal digital vaccination passport may never happen due to the debate surrounding the topic. Therefore, the paper CDC vaccine cards may be the best option to gain access to events or venues that require proof of vaccination.

There are steps you can take to secure your vaccination record information in case of damage or loss. Take a picture of both sides of the card. Make a photocopy. If your card does become damaged or lost, contact your vaccination provider. If you received your vaccine at a pop-up vaccination site, contact the organizer of that event, or contact the state's Immunization Information System.

But you can avoid a lot of this hassle by simply protecting the original card. The StoreSMART Medical and Vaccine Card Holder keeps proof of vaccination cards fully protected, easily visible, and free from destructive accidents and spills. Just slip the card into the clear plastic pocket and conveniently remove as necessary.

"A lot of us now have this new, little vaccine card that we have to take care of," says Reenie Feingold, CEO and founder of StoreSMART. "It's just a piece of paper, but it may prove to be a crucial key to getting our lives back on track. That's why it's so important to protect our cards with the clear plastic vaccine card cover."

Keep your cards protected.

StoreSMART's Vaccine Card Holders have additional practical uses, too. They can help organize insurance information, social security cards, medical information, or appointment cards; or safely hold credit cards, driver's licenses, tickets, cash, and other small items.

The pockets easily hold a 3" x 4" card. They are made of 8-gauge crystal clear vinyl for ultimate visibility and open on the 3" side with a 1/4" lip.
