A termite infestation and damage can be devastating to your home or property. Termites are often called the "silent destroyer" because they may be secretly hiding and thriving in your home or yard without any immediate signs of damage. All termites consume cellulose-based plant materials. Unfortunately, all homes, regardless of their construction type, can provide cellulose food for termite infestation.

Termites pose a serious threat: an average colony contains around 50 million insects that will eat up to 100 pounds every day! They have been known to cause more than $60 billion worth of destruction on structures annually worldwide. The following steps should help you detect these pests before it becomes too late:
